Q: XSLT "lookup" reference I am fairly new to XSLT and I am not able to find an answer to the following question. In my xsl, I want to refer to certain nodes in the XML file, using a property name defined in the xsl. In this example, I use the xslt variable context to define the property name of "flavor", but it seems that the XML file is not aware of this property name "flavor". Is there a way to define a reference to a certain node, and then use this reference in the xslt transformation? Thanks. A: If you use the XPath ref function instead of variable context, you can define a function to produce the reference. For example Then, inside your stylesheet, you can use it like so ....
